

Service Information no. 203

Declaration of Conformity changes

On 29th December 2009 the revised Machine Directive was introduced. Due to this Nilfisk-ALTO Food Division changed our declarations of conformity, as many of the standards, which we were referring to in our declarations, were moved from The Low Voltage Directive to the Machine Directive. Some standards have been replaced with new ones and others have been removed because they were no longer required.

In connection with the changed declarations of conformity no equipment changes have been carried out.

Also the layout of the declarations of conformity has been changed and the declarations are now to be found as a part of the service manuals. Furthermore, they are also available on our website as individual documents.

In short: Our declarations of conformity have been changed as a result of the revised Machine Directive – our equipment has not been changed.
